The commission also warned that residential development would necessitate construction of a new elementary school and development of a neighborhood park.

Mayor Albert Isen said he was "very enthusiastic" about a hospital site. He even suggested a hospital, regional park, and some "brains-type industry" might be developed on the 100-acre parcel.

PHILIP M. HALLORAN, M.D., told councilmen the hospital "is very anxious to have this additional time." He indicated the hospital's Board of Directors is looking at several sites throughout the city.

The hospital board began looking for a site after the federal government rejected a request for part of a 17-acre parcel of surplus Navy property.

The Torrance Unified School District also requested the Navy land and it was the school proposal which the government—at that time—accepted.

The council closed the public hearing into the zoning of the land, then unanimously voted to delay a decision until May 10.

John J. Barry, 25, whose wife, Marie, lives at 2409 1/2 Clark Lane, Redondo Beach, was commissioned an Army second lieutenant after graduating from the Infantry Officer Candidate School, Ft. Benning, Ga., Feb. 25.

Barry entered the Army in 1958.

Schools Suffer Setback In Bid for Navy Property

Prospects that a 17-acre tract of surplus Navy land might be turned over to the Torrance Unified School District appeared dimmed here Monday.

"It looks like it's getting away from us," Dr. J. H. Hull, superintendent of schools, told the Board of Education.

Dr. Hull said he had been informed that the land might be withheld by the General Services Administration "to meet federal requirements." He also said he had been asked if the school district would be willing to purchase the land at market prices "from a third party."

The superintendent said he had indicated the district would not be willing to purchase the 17 acres.

FAILURE of Congress to appropriate funds for the purchase of needed land by the Navy and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration apparently is responsible for the reverse, Dr. Hull said. The General Services Administration, which controls the purchase and disposal of government land, apparently is considering a "horse trade" for land which the Navy and NASA need, he explained.

Trustees, who have eyed the surplus Navy land as a site for an areawide vocational and technical training center, asked Dr. Hull to send letters to California Congressmen and Senators seeking help.

Trustee Bert N. Lynn also suggested area school boards might be asked to "put in a word for us." Several area school districts have expressed an interest in the vocational center, he noted.

"These politicians count people," Lynn quipped.

THE LAND, which is adjacent to a parcel given to the Torrance schools several years ago, is pie-shaped. It contains nearly 17 acres.

The Navy had declared the parcel to be surplus and asked the General Services Administration to dispose of it. The school district applied for the land under provisions permitting educational facilities to obtain the land.

Letters will be sent to Congressmen Cecil King (D-17th District) and Alphonzo Bell (R-28th District) and to Senators Thomas Kucene and George Murphy. All four will be asked to exert their influence on behalf of the district.

City Blamed for Floods

Property Owners Seek $210,000 for Damages

Claims for $210,000 in damages as a result of the flooding in Torrance last Dec. 29 were filed with the city Monday.

The claims, filed by Woolley and Woolley, attorneys, on behalf of five property owners in the 2000 block of West 234th Street, allege negligence on the part of the city, resulting in damage to homes, furniture, and landscaping.

The five claims will be forwarded to the City Council next Tuesday, according to City Clerk Vernon W. Coil.

DAMAGES are being sought by Toshiyuki and Amy Shinden, 2021 W. 234th St.; Iwao and Nancy Mochidome, 2015 W. 234th St.; Orrin L. and Janet M. Pollock, 2056 W. 234th St.; Howard C. and Arbutus K. Atsumi, 2049 W. 234th St., and George D. and Marjorie Ann McNamara, 2012 W. 234th St. The McNamara and Atsumi claims are for $10,000 each. The Shindens, Mochidomes, and Pollocks are seeking $65,000 each.

The new claims bring to nearly $265,000 the total being sought from the city as a result of the year-end flooding occasioned by some of the heaviest raining recorded here.

TWO CLAIMS, totaling $50,000, were filed on behalf of Rolling Hills Interiors, 2577 Pacific Coast Hwy. Le Vane Forsythe has asked for $4,945.41 in damages. The Forsythe home, located 4255 Newton St., was damaged by flood waters cascading from a hillside tract under construction.

Both were rejected by the City Council and referred to City Attorney Stanley Remel-
